LEGAL FRAMEWORK IN GREECE

The legal framework for egg and embryo donation in Greece states the donation must be made on an anonymous basis. Both the donor and the recipient, prior to treatment, sign the relevant consent forms as provided by the law.

Embryolab IVF Clinic operates an international department with specialized bilingual coordinators, one of whom is in direct contact with the couple or single woman from the first contact to its completion.

Why entrust Embryolab in Egg or Embryo donation?

- Donation is done only from strictly screened donors.
- Sperm Donation: Embryolab collaborates with prestigious and accredited foreign sperm banks and sperm donors are selected with very strict assessment criteria. Donor sperm is followed by the health certificate for the particular donor.
- Oocyte donation: In Embryolab the matching with the donor is done according to the recipient's phenotypical characteristics and the blood groups. Oocyte donation is also followed by health certificate of the particular donor.

How are donors screened?

The screening of candidate donors is done accordingly:

- Appearance: Candidate donors must be under 30 years of age. They must be healthy, good looking, and without overburdened medical or family history. The external phenotypical characteristics (hair color, eye color, height, weight) are recorded, in order to facilitate the matching of the appropriate donor for each recipient.
- Medical History Record: For each candidate donor, we record a very detailed history that includes medical history, life-style, family history and education history.
- Psychological Evaluation: All donors are evaluated by a specialist to certify their mental health.
- Medical examination: Candidate donors undergo a series of blood and genetic controls to determine their good physical and reproductive health.
- Vaginal: Ultrasound examination to determine the proper position and function of their ovaries.

* Only an average of 40% of the candidate donors passes successfully all five stages of the screening and is approved to be included in the list of donors of Embryolab IVF Clinic.
